HOW MUCH WILL IT COST ?
Because we intend to purchase the facility as a group, we believe that the cost of these facilities are now well within the pocket of all members, especially as there will be a considerable saving on telephone charges.

Series Four modems

Series Four is a highly sophisticated, yet simple to use range of intelligent data modems, Hayes compatible with an extended Hayes 'AT' command set. There are three models in the range, suitable for use on any computer with an RS232 interface, all of which will enable the access of viewdata systems such as Prestel; ASCII-based electronic mail systems such as Telecom Gold, enabling Telex and electronic mail messages to be sent and received; and the fast transfer of data between computers, etc.

In terms of baud rates, all Series Four modems include V21 (300/300 baud) and V23 (1200/75 - 75/1200 baud) as standard. The base model, Series Four 2123S operates at these standard baud rates. For higher speed applications, the Series Four 1200S is a Tri speed modem which includes V22 (1200/1200 baud) and the Quad mode version, the Series Four 2400S incorporates V22bis (2400/2400 baud) in addition.

All models will automatically recognise the terminal baud rate and data format, and adjust themselves accordingly. Numbers for auto dialling can be entered at the terminal or selected from the modem's store of 64 numbers. Automatic answering follows the V25 protocols and uses the standard 'Hayes' S register to enable and disable the facility.

Series Four 1200S and Series Four 2400S may be purchased with an error correction module, incorporating MNP error correction. The module also be purchased as a separate unit, after initial purchase of the modem.

Modems

Linnet modems

Linnet is a feature-packed modem suitable for use in almost every environment including business, education and home user. It has been specifically designed to offer the maximum features, but with the emphasis on ease of use.

Linnet is an advanced, intelligent modem which is suitable for use on any computer with an RS232 serial interface. No special software is required to operate the modem because it uses a set of commands known as 'AT' commands to control the facilities such as Auto Answering and Auto Dialling. These 'AT' commands are passed to the modem via the RS232 interface in the same manner as data which means that Linnet will operate with virtually any terminal software available.

There are three models in the range, all of which will enable the access of viewdata systems such as Prestel; ASCII-based electronic mail systems such as Telecom Gold, enabling Telex and electronic mail messages to be sent and received; and the fast transfer of data between computers, etc.

In terms of baud rates, all Linnet modems include V21 (300/300 baud) and V23 (1200/75 - 75/1200 baud) as standard. The base model, Linnet, operates at these standard baud rates. For higher speed applications, the Linnet 1200 is a Tri speed modem which includes V22 (1200/1200 baud) and the Quad mode version, the Linnet 2400 incorporates V22bis (2400/2400 baud) in addition.

Linnet will automatically recognise the terminal baud rate and data formats and adjust itself accordingly. Automatic dialling can be initiated under software control or a preset number may be selected.

Linnet 1200 and Linnet 2400 may be purchased with an error correction module, incorporating MNP error correction. The module may also be purchased as a separate unit, after initial purchase of the modem.

Apple Slices

Produced bi-monthly, this newsletter keeps members up-to-date on current developments and news from the world of Apple computers.

Software Libraries

These are the largest collections of Apple Public Domain Software in the UK, and they are available only to Apple2000 members at low cost.

The libraries include software from Apple User Groups throughout the world; with programming languages, spreadsheet templates, games, utilities and much more. We have three separate libraries — for the Apple II, the Apple IIgs and the Macintosh.

Apple2000 also offers Special Release Software to its members. These are professionally written applications that rival commercial programs costing much more.

AppleXtras

An additional subscription entitles members to receive a disk full of the latest P.D. software, issued on a bi-monthly basis — in Apple II, Apple IIgs or Macintosh formats.

Shop2000

Apple2000 also supply a range of high quality blank discs, books, cables and other consumables to members at considerable discounts.

Technical Hotline

If you need immediate help or advice on any Apple-related topic, the Apple2000 Hotline is there to help you.

If the operator who takes your call is unable to answer your question, he will pass you on to another member who will be able and willing to help. Our team of helpers includes persons from all aspects of business, as well as home users, giving you access to an unrivalled range of expertise.

Bulletin Boards

Apple2000 maintains a free Electronic Bulletin Board, TABBS, providing a 24 hour notice board with both open and private areas for messages, and for Special Interest Groups (SIGS). Access at V21, V22, V22bis, V23 or V32. This is the fastest Apple Bulletin Board service in the UK.

TABBS also includes private PD software libraries for Apple2000 members. These libraries are kept up-to-date with the latest Public Domain and Shareware programs.

If you want to try out the facilities, access TABBS on 0225 743797.

Special Interests

Special Interest Groups are formed to give members with particular interests the chance to get together and exchange ideas, attend lectures, learn from members and outside experts, and to help others.

Local Groups

Apple2000 fully supports the formation of local groups to enable members to meet on a regular basis to exchange ideas and discuss problems.

Active groups exist in London, Essex, Berkshire, Kent, Sheffield, Birmingham, Liverpool, Hertfordshire, Glasgow, Bristol and many other locations.

Some groups support Apple II and Macintosh, whilst others prefer to concentrate on a single Apple product.

Overseas Contacts

Apple2000 maintains contacts throughout the world on a regular basis.

Through our contacts with other User Groups, we maintain an up-to-date picture of the Apple scene world wide.

Many of our callers to the TABBS bulletin board live overseas, and a membership of Apple2000 is a passport to keeping abreast of the Apple scene today.

Membership Fees

The Annual Membership fee is £30 per year for UK residents.

We welcome membership applications from EEC countries for an additional £5, and from other countries for an additional £10, to cover the extra cost of mailing Apple2000 magazines and Apple Slices.
